

Jonathan Agnew MBE DL

Jonathan attended Uppingham School and moved to Leicester full-time when he joined Leicestershire County Cricket Club in 1978. His career with the Foxes spanned 13 years and he represented England on six occasions. Having spent three winters working for BBC Radio Leicester, Jonathan progressed in 1991 to become BBC cricket correspondent and the presenter of Test Match Special. Within that role, Jonathan interviews people from all walks of life from Nelson Mandela to Lily Allen.

Jonathan was awarded MBE for services to broadcasting, he holds Honorary Degrees at De Montfort, Loughborough and Leicester Universities, is a regular on the theatre circuit and he became a Deputy Lieutenant in 2015.

